

Backtesting March VWAP + Bollinger bands, New York session (April would be too easy)

I know I have what I claim.

Starting Balance 100k

2/3

Confluences: NWOG filled, price displaced through Bollinger band MA, retested with rejection block. Targeting +1 vwap stdv.

First trade: Clean rejection from Bollinger band moving average along with vwap, limit order rejection block got ran through.

-35 points (350)

Second trade: Same as first basically except opposite. Price broke through both vwap and the band MA with displacement, market order 3:1 rr.

Trade looked good tbh, over bought rsi, price displacing through vwap. Should have gone be when it touched moving average, but thats my call.

This was okay, but got break evened. Basically only trading off of the Bollinger band moving average.

BE

This was an amazing trade. 3 min and 5 min rejection block that broke vwap, entry on retest of moving average plus retest of POC. After taking out the high, stops trailing the 5 minute candles until hit the 15 minute level.

First trade: Brutal. Actually looked solid, big rejection from vwap and Bollinger band MA. 3 min rejection block entry.

-40 points (-$400)

Second trade: This trade was very well managed

Displacement through vwap and Moving average market order. Later on, a 3 min rejection block came from breaking vwap and the MA. This is where id realistically trail my stops to, so instead I scale the position making it a break even if stopped. First tp at the AM high, then targeting the 15 minute level. I think I should also consider taking profits when a new setup like this forms, instead of trailing to be re enter on the new setup and take some profits. Gonna try this in the future.

Beautiful pre market trade. Displacement through MA on 2 minute after breaking VWAP -1 Deviation as well. 3 minute in the next minute displaced through the moving average as well which is reasoning for stop placement. Before market open move to BE for volatility, pushed straight to the 15 minute MIG liquidity level.

+140 points ($1400)

Amazing trade again. Delivering from a 5 minute MIG liquidity zone, over extension on +2 vwap, candle that closed below the moving average formed rejection wick with a limit entry right on the POC exactly. Targeted opposing -1 deviation.

Beautiful pre market trade. Breakthrough of the 2 and 3 min moving average after respecting vwap, + a rejection of the POC.

+81 points ($1620)

Wasn't a bad trade. Broke through vwap and respect moving average while forming a very solid rejection block.

-32 points ($320)

Absolutely brutal break even. But I cant act like I wouldnt have gone break even after touching the vwap. Big displacement through vwap and MA, entry on the retest of it. Targeting the lows. In hindsight I should have atleast trailed my stop.

Literally cannot tell if this would have been a win or a loss. Price trading along +2 stdv but broke the trend and broke through Bollinger band MA. Entry on retest with stops above high, and market open candle would've either stopped me or hit tp. Either way, it's not fair to count as a win lol.
